

BANGKOK AIDS CONFERENCE

UN report says 9,000 Filipinos have HIV

By Frank Chiuso

PUN Northern Times Bureau

BANGKOK—The number of people living with HIV/AIDS that continues to rise in the Philippines is still very low but has more than doubled compared to 2001, according to a United Nations report on the global AIDS epidemic.

The report, which will be released at the 15th international AIDS conference opening here on Monday, showed that at the end of 2003, there were 9,000 Filipinos with AIDS, or more than double the 4,400 recorded in 2001. Almost all of these are adults aged 15 to 49.

Deaths caused by AIDS complications in the Philippines since 2001 were estimated at less than 500, compared to less than 200 in 2001.

The global percentage of people living with HIV in 2003 was estimated at 37.8 million, compared to 34.9 million in 2001. The 2003 figure is about 1.2 percent of the total world population.

But even if the Philippines is still ranked among the "low and slow" in terms of HIV incidence, the country still has much to worry about, said UN AIDS Executive Director Dr. Peter Piot.

AIDS action in Manila said the figure may be underreported because of Filipinos' tendency to stigmatize the disease.

"HIV/AIDS is the true globalization disease," Piot told journalists at a media forum here.

He said Asian countries are experiencing a fast rate of infection.

"The epidemic is expanding rapidly in this region, with sharp increases in HIV infections in China, Indonesia and Vietnam," he said.

A total of 1.1 million people in Asia were infected in 2003, the UN said, noting the steep rise in HIV infections in China, Indonesia, Vietnam and India.

In 2003, a fifth of the new infections around the world were in Asia. Even Japan and the Middle East, the favored destinations of Filipino overseas contract workers, showed a sharp increase in HIV/AIDS incidence in the past three years.

Another trend reported by the 2004 UN AIDS report is what Piot called the "genderization" of AIDS.

"In 1981 when AIDS was first reported, most of the cases were middle-class gay men. In Asia and in other parts of the world now, 50 percent of all people with AIDS are women. In some parts of Africa, it is even 60 percent," Piot said.

According to the UN report, Filipino women aged 15 to 49 with HIV outnumbered 3,000 in the 2003.

Piot said the modern mass technological and social transmission of HIV from men to women is more efficient than women to men.

RP renews chicken import ban

THE GOVERNMENT yesterday said a ban on poultry imports from 12 Asian and North American countries would stay in place following fresh bird flu outbreaks in Southeast Asia.

The ban includes all chicken or poultry products from Cambodia, China, Indonesia, Japan, South Korea, Laos, Pakistan, Taiwan, Thailand and Vietnam, plus the state of British Columbia in Canada and the US states of Delaware, Maryland, Pennsylvania and Texas.

China, Thailand

and Vietnam have all reported new cases in recent days, sparking fears of a resurgence of the avian outbreak that left 24 people dead and devastated the regional poultry industry. AFP

A FAMILY INVESTMENT

NEW

CORINTHIAN EXECUTIVE

Residency

for as low as P7,958/mo.

(INCLUDES FINANCING PACKAGE)

1,100 SQM INVESTMENT IN 2004

History office, commercial & residential complexes

1000 Leading Circle Developer (PREFERRED AWARD)

812-2222-243-6565-818-8888

241-1894-892-6150 | 0919-310-8553

www.cftyland.com | aresoncorporate@corinthianland.com

27 nations ink pact vs smoking

ALL 27 member states of the World Health Organization's Western Pacific Region have signed the WHO Framework Convention on Tobacco Control, which is designed to attack the threat that smoking poses to global health.

WHO's Western Pacific Region is the only WHO region in which all governments have signed the treaty, the WHO said in a statement released by its regional headquarters in Manila on Friday.

"The fact that our individual partners of our member states have signed the treaty within one year is a remarkable achievement," said Shigeru Ota, WHO regional director for the Western Pacific.

"Of course, we know there is still a lot of hard work to do. Tobacco kills 3,000 people every hour in the region," he said.

"We have one third of the world's smokers, the highest rates of male smoking, and the fastest increase of smoking among children and young women. But we believe we are now on the right track to turn back the tobacco scourge," Ota

Rosales; 51

LORENZO L. Rosales of Quezon City died on Thursday of a heart attack. He was 51.

He is survived by his wife Cynthia, son Chay, daughter-in-law Rosemarie and grandchildren Percy and Lorena.

The body lies at the Loyola Memorial Chapel. It is (Grandchildren, Michael City, tomorrow will be held at 10 a.m. on Monday, July 19, at the Holy Cross Memorial Park in Marikina, Quezon City after an 8 a.m. Mass.

Business

BSE PSE index up 10.75 points to 1,007.10 (as of 10:00 a.m.)

E-mail: pdi_inquirer@pdi.com.ph
Website: www.inquirer.comEditor: Raul O. Harela
Assistant Editor: Carlos S. Narves

Private group pushes tourism dev't

By Raul O. Harela

THE PHILIPPINE Chamber of Commerce and Industry yesterday launched its five-point advocacy strategy for tourism that included, among others, the goal of generating $3 billion in tourism receipts.

PCCI vice president Ramon Liao said the group's program—described as an aggressive institutional campaign for tourism and one aiming the growth of the tourism industry—was also aimed at bringing 1 million tourists and creating 1 million jobs.

Liao said the PCCI's strategy would also serve as a mechanism of protection for the Department of Tourism.

"In the administration announcements from six years back, the PCCI would only endorse the appointment of anyone in tourism secretary if he or she can access plus-three ratings within the next five years," he added.

Liao explained that the PCCI has been clamoring that the country has one of the five lowest tourism arrivals-to-local-hotel ratio. In 2001, tourism statistics showed Malaysia was the leading Southeast Asian country in terms of foreign tourists to beds at 12.5 million. Thailand was next with 9.7 million; Singapore had 8.1 million; Indonesia, 5.4 million; Vietnam, 2.4 million.

About 1.4 million tourists visit the Philippines last year, which was less than the 2 million that was last seen in Phuket in Thailand alone.

"The Philippines took about 20 years to increase its visitor arrival to a million," Liao said. "It was at 1980 was pegged at a million and now it has not even reached two million mark."

He said the government should continue working on the country's tourism potentials and keep on implementing previous policies that have produced satisfactory results.

Liao said the PCCI tourism strategy had seven the following "imperative actions the government must carry out to effectively achieve the program."

• Creating and promoting a unique Philippine tourism experience. Examples are those related to tourism, getting and entertainment, world heritage and historical sites, shopping, sports as well as health and medical tourism, and education.

• Identifying there is five tourism programs, each with three to 10 industry destinations. The programs include as primary to others Manila, Cebu, Iloilo, Zamboanga, Davao and Palawan; Cebu as gateway to Boracay, Dumaguete and Siargao; Iloilo as gateway to Boracay, Dumaguete and Siargao; Zamboanga and General Santos.

• Initiating efforts to bring down prices—more promotion of travel packages offering to visit multiple Southeast Asian destinations for lower rates, like visiting

UCPB settles ₱7.5-B PDIC debt

By Dario C. Durano

UNITED-Commerce Finance Bank yesterday visited ahead of maturity a ₱7.5-billion monthly (monthly facility) provided by the state-owned Philippine Deposit Insurance Corp. when the bank was hit by heavy withdrawals last year.

"The maturity reflects on such," said UCPB President Jose Quinsion during the signing ceremony at the PDIC building.

"Deposits continue to grow strongly and all loans to robust and non-performing assets are performing very well now," he said.

He noted that the bank's deposits guaranteed by UCPB grew by ₱220 billion over the last nine months to ₱80 billion, allowing the bank to pay to PDIC in the PDIC ahead of the depositors' schedule.

The ₱7.5 billion loan formed part of the capital assistance package that the PDIC extended to UCPB last year.

On top of the monthly facility, PDIC provided the bank with a ₱20 billion package for its 10-year rehabilitation program and another ₱1.5 billion monthly facility.

Of a ₱70 billion liquidity facility only ₱7.5 billion was drawn by UCPB while, in turn, was fully repaid to PDIC.

It also reported that as of the first semester, UCPB had sold ₱1 billion of its non-performing assets while another ₱500 million would be sold—through two small asset sales in the year end.

A major chunk of the NPA, consisting of ₱1.5 billion worth of insured other properties owned or acquired, would be liquidated through the special purpose vehicle made last month.

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Source: Philippine Daily Inquirer

Gov't plans lifting of various VAT exemptions

By Michelle N. Ranao

THE GOVERNMENT is considering lifting the VAT (value-added tax) exemption of several products and services, saying too many exemptions make it unable to maximize the revenue potential of the tax.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue said it has proposed to the Department of Finance the reduction of the 13 products and services that currently enjoy 0% exemption, as stated under the Tax Code. Doing so would help solve weak VAT collection, the BIR added.

"There are instances that the 0% system is not efficient, but that is not because of the 0% per se, but because of the too many exemptions that we allow," BIR Deputy Commissioner Rina Biazore told reporters.

Under the 0% system, the government should be able to trace the taxable amount of value-added of a product or service through company's declarations of input and output VAT credits. What can't be traced, however, the government fears, weakens the complete value-added chain, Biazore explained.

Under the Tax Code, 13 products and services are exempted from VAT. These include agricultural and marine products in their original state; medicines and medical supplies; petroleum products and their raw materials; and medical and agricultural services, among others.

"It is only here in the Philippines that too many products and services are exempted from VAT. That is why even if the government increases the VAT rate, it will cannot maximize the export-revenue collection because of the exemptions," Biazore said.

The government's economic team is expected to push for the increase in the VAT rate from the current 10 percent to 12 percent when the 19th Congress opens this month.

According to an official from the Department of Finance, the DFI's head agency, the proposal to reduce the number of VAT-exempt products and services was logical. "It must's sufficient to improve revenue and consistent with the government's collection,"

Eastern EvO DSL

- get 50% off on installation fee
- +128 Mbps DSL at only 980php*

Trusted by Business. Best for Home.

Eastern EvO DSL

UNLIMITED INTERNET* FOR P1,780/MONTH

Call 020-880344 or visit www.evodsl.com.ph

Wei Chuan
Last century's experience

OPEN FOR FRANCHISE

- 3M SAGUO FRANCHISE IS A SUCCESS
- 3M SAGUO, SAN FERNANDO, PAMPANGA & SAN LAZARO
- NOW OPEN FOR FRANCHISE
- CALL OR TEXT : 0929 882111 / 0929 882112

1.3-BILLION LOAN FOR RURAL ELECTRIFICATION

Philbank has extended a P1.3-billion loan to the Philippine National Grid Co. (PnGC) for its electrification program, to help with the government's power distribution efforts. Gary Torka (right), President of the Philippine grid, and CEO, and Paul Lapina, PnGC-SEC chair, conclude the transaction at the Landbank Business Center in Manila City.

RP credit rating seen to improve

By Michelle K. Reyes

THE GOVERNMENT credit rating is on a strong, to no longer potential, during its current rating, downgraded, once it pays the new debt figure which, in the past, even said to have been overstated due to flaws in the system of computing public sector debt.

According to a Department of Finance official, credit rating agencies may require a better picture of the Philippines and that will be a good thing in the economy's performance.

The IMF said it is recognizing the public sector debt for 2010 after it has adopted a new and "more accurate" method of computing.

The 2010 debt was supposed to have been around 60 percent, but recognition of the figures based on the new method is considerable, the IMF said.

"While recognition will positively affect our standing, considering that we were perceived to be in the level of a debt crisis," said the finance official. "The fact is that we are now in a more comfortable position which is well below the debt crisis."

Philbank's rating is not a government official, but it is a good thing for the Philippines' credit rating. The Philippines' credit rating is not a government official, but it is a good thing for the Philippines' credit rating.

The IMF is a key in the process of gathering information from other government agencies and has set as the recognition of the 2010 public sector debt, the official said. Based on estimates, the 2010 debt figure could be significantly lower than originally reported.

Under the new computation method as proposed by the International Monetary Fund, the national government's borrowing from government-owned and controlled corporations (GOCCs), government financial institutions (GFIs), and state-owned enterprises (SOEs) will no longer be included in the public sector debt.

The move the national government placed in the ranking of the debt will also be included in the recognition.

The rating firm is the agency the government utilized as the General Fund, based on the estimate (G-20), which says the amount to pay off the debt is around 60 percent.

Because it is the IMF that recommended the new method of computation, it depends on the government's ability to understand the new method of computation, the official said.

In addition, the government's borrowing from other government agencies should not be included in the computation of the public sector debt. This is because the income of the agency, the contribution of the agency, and the debt should not be included in the computation of the public sector debt.

The latest debt-to-GDP (gross domestic product) ratio stood at 20.5 percent. The IMF official said the rating firm had not lowered the debt-to-GDP ratio, but the Government's borrowing from other government agencies should not be included in the computation of the public sector debt.

The debt-to-GDP ratio will improve and be reduced to 11.1 percent.

The move will further improve the country's credit rating, the official said.

Low revenue drives up LRTA losses to P600M

By Gladys S. Baines

THE LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

The LRTA's losses have increased to P600 million in the first half of the year, but the company is not in a bad position, according to the company's president, who said the company is not in a bad position.

Eyes open

INSPIRATION is all around us. Life being art in itself, the details of every single day create a veritable collage of experience.

It is natural for anyone to want to express the images that cause the intense and complex joyous feelings.

Visitors gathered one of the country's best visual images to create optical illusions.
An exhibit entitled "Types of the World" last month at Rockwood.

Using Sabongui's DigiMax V6, an all-in-one print-and-shoot, pro-level camera, assistant Pig Tronico, Silver Mera, Francis Alekhan, Gaudy Angilly, Arnon Makino and George Tapan photographed moments to hint a palette of color and emotion—an Instagram sandwich, if you will.

It was: must ask the case what the purpose of life was.

"Happiness," I answered.
"No," he said with a very smile.

"The purpose of life is to make life."

On this page, have a glimpse of the little things that make life worth living.

Source: Journal of the American Medical Association, 2000, 283:1331-1336.

SUPER! SCOOP

Pebble in the shoe

Press freedom is the real issue in the ongoing tug-of-war over Almeida, the movie

By Michelle Elise

A B&B, fast question mark, sits where a movie poster should be.

The movie in question is "Iskulog," the 120-minute documentary about the Japan tsunami, the former first lady of the Philippines. The film was named best in Cinematography at the 2004 Indonesia Film Festival last January and has since been shown in international film festivals in the United States, Canada, Europe, Australia and New Zealand.

It has generated new reviews in such publications as The New York Times (Thomas), Variety magazine, The Village Voice, American Geographical, The New York Times, Moody and Woods magazines, to name a few. The Hollywood Reporter wrote: "It

The Filipino monologue is full of a sense of wonder—that it's something until now about the film's success, and if it is where it will be shown in local theaters. Such is the love in the Philippines, where the distance be-went two points lower, wants to be a single line. A temporary restraining order issued by the United States District Court for the District of Columbia has delayed the scheduled premiere at the Lincoln Center Film Festival. Now the matter is before the Supreme Court. This, in spite of the Daring Green by the White and Black Communities and Black Action Board, along with a recommendation that the film be shown in schools.

Bigger issue
Inside, Moore has said that the injunction, after issuing a statement to the effect that "Inside" the movie was a violation of her privacy, is her latest entry into a war, a war she, 50, claims that her attorney as the holder of the production contract dated December 13, 1996, which ended her agreement to be filmed and interviewed extensively for a full-length documentary, had been forged.

the lawsuit, and have faith that the Virginia public is intelligent enough to make a fair judgment on the issue. There is a much bigger issue here. Let us call it the man. —Forrestal@thebrow.com

Wagner media as the "Bachelors' Club" in a recent interview, film-maker and "Bachelors' Director" Luciano Biaz explains: "During the 1980s, many questions about freedom of the press. It's to state that it's like Stalin who is trying to stop it ... we have to go back to 1988, when the freedom of the press was brought back and won."

Character-driven

The critic wrote that "inside" leaked "into Michael Moore's story."

Michael Moore is a documentary filmmaker who made headlines (and raised eyebrows) at last year's Academy Awards with his controversial and scathing indictment of the current Bush administration in "Fahrenheit 9/11." These days, he's been hitting the fitness circuit with his latest work, "Yours Truly," currently showing in theaters in the United States.

That was quick to point out the difference: Moore had a pre-learned speech, while her work was largely spontaneous. (She did the Moore, however, in discussing her point on the issue of "green business." "There is no way that Bush will go near beating Michael Moore's film [Dahmer], but 50/50." And even if he tried, it, in fewer words, isn't.

Just imagine it, by some means (not this kind this country) it is to create a change in decision-making by doing it. "Hindus" were banned from ever being arrested. Would that mean that the public figure, apart from critical and/or legal examination, would then block it by simply filing a court case?

Slow business

Having more "buddha" in their diets, the writer is amazed by all the different diets. Every 10 pages should use the same, one eat because it's the current best of the global environmental health and something we can all be proud of, but later as because it has revealed a straightforward in our history. I especially want your Filipino to go and see it." But said "The 10 you talk only were born in 1980. They have no memory of the martial law years, or when 'success' in life?"

In the tale of irony, a postscript is no main. We all know you well that any speech of controversy only serves to set correctly affairs. For everybody's sake, let us hope that the only issue we will hear in the next few weeks relates to "Smiley" will be the approach to the film's coming credits.

Keywords

Smith, Moore himself filed the injunction, after issuing a statement to the effect that "Smith" the movie was a violation of his privacy in her latest court case, et al., a married Mrs. De claimed that her appearance in the bookers of the production company dated December 12, 1996, which indicated her agreement to be filmed and interviewed extensively for a full-length documentary—Just One Night.

Let us leave the arguments to the lawyers, and have faith that the Virginia public is intelligent enough to make a fair judgment on the issue. There is a much bigger issue here. Let us call it the manhood question.

Andrius, inside Marnie is a golden figure in the day—a little more, in fact, even looking like

"Para mas masarap,
CARNATION dapat!"

Share: Facebook Twitter LinkedIn Reddit StumbleUpon

SATURDAY Super

The Volum-driven pace of non-Hollywood fare challenged my patience, but also trained me to watch movies in a different way.

WHAT'S ON

Shirley's business credit will carry over into 2006.

[illegible]

Q

Straight from the arthouse

OUT THE WINDOW

Take Quiz

MY FIRST dip into the pool of artificial films happened not as a matter of choice but as a matter of life and death.

It was back when I was a third-year business student at the university searching for the hole of talent because of my appalling grades that, coinciding, I first became an "outlet credit student," a language student who took advantage of any moment to pull in as other subjects and breathe life back to the grade-point average. On study mornings, not-indecently early, I would rock to the university gallery in search through those tapestry-patch academics named the five stars of the theater.

It was on-site biologists, when the size of the northeast shore population was nothing at all on stock levels that, that I was indeed wanting to say would and finding these same subsidies on the television screen. The sense of shame was palpable among the students present—we all knew the places we were there, and it wasn't a question of this or versus whose names are visible's presence.

I remember waiting with him in "the Seventh Sea" in Swedish director Ingmar Bergman's "La Chèvre" (1981). (Chabrol's Clap is Spanish, however Luis Buñuel's "Vértigo" is about blackouts, and "Surf" is Akira Kurosawa. It was to show something that I like, had eyes on Leonardo Di Caprio, he learned from the pretty-boy Hollywood career, and playing the young French poet Arthur Rimbaud in the film "Good Will Hunting".)

I admit that it is a uncomfortable in the beginning. I would emerge from the gillnet, cut this throat with a bearded hook, and suddenly lose the urge to change into a little raincoat, but off to a coffee shop, and a chain study while permitting what the ball happened in the last scene... and while the ball was the happy endings. In the national round alone, however, I got hooked on the case alone, in home world.

Swimming the city's Chula del Mar waterway, and I stopped enjoying happy endings. I welcomed the shift of perspective, the water landscape and cultural mosaic, which was a refreshing change from the 19-century history of beach of Hollywood. Yes, the slick-on bikini covers part of many of the films did challenge my patients, but it also reflected a world needed in a different way. Another is insight revealed in subtle gestures, and seeing it so powerful emotions evoked in words and actions.

Thus, by pathologic glaucoma-related loss we do not mean a blinding or disabling, one that brought about a peripheral position. We mean not to be any chronic population.

Source situations

Of course not everybody was struck as I was with high grades, so I acknowledge to the boys that nevertheless I acquired a name for being smart. (Just ask my boyfriend, who could never get perfect test scores that the teachers/friends/family like him were happening to a nearby famous colleague. Then, it does have a lovely entry, genuine fictionary "Stanza

Now, let's wind the reel back a bit. What is an exorcism film?

"Exorcism" is used to describe films or movies from other countries, or the type that tend to depend on film companies there. The genre is also tagged "moral drama" or "social drama" or simply foreign film. In the end of World War II, as this document prohibited to the United States, violating a growing suspicion of the

Stopping for Gas

FIGURE 1 | Left: The 1000 Genomes Project (2012) and the 1000 Genomes Project (2015) are the two main projects in the world. Right: The 1000 Genomes Project (2012) and the 1000 Genomes Project (2015) are the two main projects in the world.

Byline: David La Paro

MY FIRST run-in with Casie was at Undergeneral Mew, a young medic found there at the Peter Dinklage Hall, two years ago. After a lifetime of being exposed to standard-issue genetic issues from the likes of Old Mary and Eddie Rains, I found it very refreshing to scope out new generation. Unlike doctors in North America's largest mall, Unfortunately, I had just finished my senior thesis recently during a late lunch with friends at Rains's as I really couldn't afford a job.

However, as Jack would have it, Gas Italy has followed us back to Britain. I was one of the dozens of us individuals who congregated back Italian style with Claudio Frasca, restaurant owner and Gas-Italia CEO, at the recent opening of their new store at the Palazzo, Chelsea Centre.

Over grilled scallops, prepared clams, oysters, and large and Portofino mushrooms cooked, we had a magnificent white, red and meaty seafood.

New-generation Italian denim finds its way to Manila... and a frenzied welcome worked its way from Italian wine to the supposedly ancient Chinese, Mary-Kate. How did that happen? Perhaps it was the initial combination of wine and cheese and marijuana, perhaps. Hey, that was totally honest, but overall, rehabilitation.

Stepping out of the dinner coat, then, we all made a beeline to the bar of the library to witness a parade of individuals who embody the values of the brand, Literature Friends of Harper! Mike Iacova, Tracy Delaney, Victor Company, Clarey White, Massimo Dato, Stephanie Kiehl, and Pia Horvath enjoyed swatched moments in the spotlight, while authors, David and

Can't see the side of the campaign, the Muslim community has inspired people who have manifested a simple mission into an inspiration.

With the brand's message effectively communicated, it was time to sample the goods, like a normal day tripping through a bathroom store, the shoppers left Basset shoes, patchwork pants, and flip-flops in colorful piles while making expert opinions on what to mix with what. Two hotel guests declined to help in the spirit of the game, including staid, although pulling a Winston-Salem old crowd to mind. The total theory only added to the evening's giddy energy. When the store's techno band finally called it a day, it was clear that Maudie's jeans store had another place where they could feel like kids.

Showering series around: Are you driven by a passion of high-end scenery? Click on www.gap-journal.com and tell them about it. Or send your data and work in "Gap, It's Hot" Dept. 474-044. You have the Gaudin; a. 3000 (Shower) 178 1001

Message in a bottle

Sicily. D&G's latest fragrance for women, is an ode to its namesake city.

Be Grown the better

DIMENSION DOLCE and Stefano Galbani's interests are perfume and, distastefully, their evolving obsessions with their own Mediterranean traditions has a lot to do with it. Sicily, the designer's latest fragrance for winery, is an ode to the architectural arabesque and baroque palazzi in its rambling city. An appropriately passionate and sensual scene, Sicily is a rough-hewn instance of life at the southernmost tip of the boot-shaped nation known as Italy.

As Kelly's name resonated throughout pop, Drake and Cash

It is their sense, embracing both neo-modernism and vernacularism, that has transformed them into the emblematic of Italian typography. For the designer's dramatic black-and-white art, the masters of Italian design relied upon efficient Helvetica, Garamond, and Bodoni as the primary of any type to create harmony and a natural balance as well.

over's take on the Italian job

the scenery of a woman's bedroom is the chief of a religious procession. A silk slip, provocatively unfasted and belonging to a woman-soldier, chains the loose smelling of romance and we then figure into the frame and become the object of Francine's gaze who seems to take long sips of it. The message of Delia and Gabriella, Bianca Bellini and Giuseppe Francine's willow-like vision masterfully ties in with Italy's message which, amidst war, is absolute seduction.

HEY MAMA. So, by most standards, Madonna's Bedroom Service is the continuation of her career.

SPARTAN 2.0 (continued)

Straight from the arthouse

Promax 01

The young public who had grown weary of mainstream Hollywood fare. Some of these arthouse cinema gems had distilled "gay cinema," a term the skeptical film festival patron employed to categorize pictures they'd have no time, let alone space, to discuss with the masses of attendees like Bruce Laikins' "Open City" and Markandee's "Tight Little Island." The meaning of the term "gay cinema" changed to indicate instead the frequency with which art house cinema went about its business.

Open Access

Even while my business is foreign-free has grown, I will concede that it requires an alternative way of mind, especially since we've been conditioned pretty much all our lives to watching television headlines.

I have noticed, however, that there is a growing number of people, young filipinos in fact, who appreciate alternative cinema. Small "underground" theaters are sprouting around the metropolis for indie film enthusiasts. Some of whom I've met. To be sure, they are far from being known as all-out, no-holds-bar fil-

Notably, local film festivals seem to just get better, drawing more and more sought-after talent. I'm pretty thrilled at the prospects, not least in the ongoing Cinemasia Film Festival, based on its small annual runs at the Greenwich Channel. These are the subspecies that I plan to collect: "Dumbo" (Philippines), "J" (Java) and "J. Niger" (Africa/India), "Dumbo" (Japan), "Box 174" (Hawaii) and "Wink's Dumbo" (Philippines). I am only hoping that the guys (the "Dumbo") will be blind, because I think everybody should find time to watch the brilliant film and Sundance winner, Ik, therefore we are (see www.fox.com).

That's got me going. I haven't caught into an insufferable actor who has charmed Hollywood movies before. I'm still planning to watch Spider-Man, I'm still excited about the opening of Wreck Crew and Bill & Ted due week-end, and I have the DVDs of Deliverance and Bill & Ted.

haves" lined up for my next music-recording session. But just as I like teaching up-and-coming blues musicians here for a stipend, I go out of my way sometimes to reject something different but exchange.

Once I have a couple of sessions, members of some very notable ensembles, in the jazz culture. The first "Who's your boy?" Most serious bluesmen seriously protesting the "double S" phenomenon: the singer, however, not music. But the spirit "Gambler Blues," a certain more recent named blues on the scene was a knock-up that "I didn't know" was then released in the "Sally" soundtrack. My studio was made to find out.

```

[Questions and answers will come at the end of the lecture]

```

